

Evidence for Investments in Early Childhood: Links to Resources

As promised, Andy Mashburn provided links to documents that summarize the research on the value of investments in early childhood as well as the letter of support signed by America's leading researchers.

First, here is a link to a web-site that includes a summary statement of what research says about investing in early childhood education. It has been signed by 542 researchers to date.

Second, the letter is based upon a 2013 report published by the Society for Research in Child Development and Foundation for Child Development. The link to the report is here:
